
Verification of Authorization to Work

The Immigration Reform and Control Act requires all U.S. employers to verify the employment eligibility and identity of all employees hired to work in the United States after November 6, 1986.

Effective January 1, 1994, only those individuals verified to be U.S. citizens or persons legally authorized to work in the United States may receive employment and training services from any:

- State or local government agency.
- Community action agency.
- Private entity contracting with a state or local government agency within California to perform such services.

(Secondary schools and adult education programs excluded.)

To comply with this legislation, the EDD will ask to see documentary proof of authorization to work of every individual seeking in-person employment related services prior to providing services.

Appeal Rights

Individuals may appeal denial of services due to lack of documentary proof of authorization to work. Contact the nearest America's Job Center regarding departmental appeal procedures.
