APPEAL PROCEDURES

Any holding of loss of United States nationality may be appealed to the Board of Appellate Review or other designated office of the Department of State within one year or thereafter. The regulations governing appeals are set forth at Title 22 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Part 7. Notice of appeal should be addressed to the Board of Appellate Review, or other designated office and may be submitted through an American Embassy or Consulate or through an authorized attorney in the United States or directly to the Director, Office of Policy Review and Inter-Agency Liaison, Overseas Citizens Services, Bureau of Consular Affairs, SA-29, 4th Floor, U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C. 20520.

You are advised to consult an attorney in the preparation and presentation of your appeal.

The appeal must be in writing and it must state with particularity the reason why it is being made. It may be accompanied by a legal brief. Any statement of facts or circumstances not mentioned when the case was previously considered should be sworn to before an official authorized to take oaths and should be supported by the best evidence obtainable.

For additional information about appeal procedures and to obtain copies of the relevant provisions of the Code of Federal Regulations, consult the nearest American Embassy or Consulate, or write to the Board of Appellate Review, Department of State, Washington, D.C. 20520.
